About Your Walk

Days are filled with breathtaking scenery on parts of the 186-mile Pembrokeshire coast path. We visit the Preseli Hills, from where Stonehenge's mysterious bluestones were quarried. We can ponder on the enigma of how the stones were transported almost 200 miles to Salisbury's world famous Neolithic site. We experience local land and seascapes with the coastal path offering a great variety from rugged cliff tops to sheltered coves, spacious beaches and lazy estuaries. The natural world at one of its most rugged and awe-inspiring with frequent wildlife encounters expected. A countryside that has evoked and inspired many literary works over the years. Time to marvel at a 5,000-year-old Cromlech and the national cathedral of Wales in St Davids, the smallest city in the United Kingdom. To be rewarded at the end of each day with sumptuous offerings of local delicacies, best enjoyed in their own homelands.

Monday

After a short transfer to St Davids, a town named for the patron saint of Wales, follow a medieval pilgrimage trail to the chapel and holy well of St Non, the mother of St David. Tuesday

Enjoy one of the loveliest stretches of the cragged Welsh coast, passing the blue lagoon and attractive fishing villages unchanged by time. A highlight is our visit to see traditional Irish wool weavers at Melin Tregwynt, a whitewashed wool mill tucked in a remote wooded valley. There has been a wool mill on this spot since the 1600s. From here, we continue back to our hotel in Wolf's Castle.

Wednesday

Walk in the Preseli Hills today; wild rolling moors roamed by sheep and ponies, and home to ancient myths. The bluestones at Stonehenge were quarried here. Not too far away is Nevern Church, with its famous 10th-century cross and 600-year-old bleeding yew. A bit further, we'll find Pentre Ifan, one of the finest megalithic sites in Britain, dating from 3500 BC. Then we transfer to our home for the next three nights, a luxury country hotel in Narberth.

Thursday

Walk through the deep wooded Treffgarne Gorge, known for its panoramic views of the Western Cleddau river. We'll see splendid views across the valley to the Treffgarne Rocks. The perfect woodland experience. This afternoon we walk to the 13th Century harbor-town of Tenby, a fashionable 19th-century resort, complete with city walls-and a castle, considered by many to be one of the best seaside castles in Wales.
